MEDICINAL.

We Know What

Is going to happen to the little boy who is suffering with green apples. A grown man couldn't be induced to try that experiment; and yet the grown man will overload himself with indigestible food for which he will pay a greater penalty than colic. It is this careless and thoughtless eating which is the beginning of stomach trouble and all its painful consequences.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other forms of "stomach trouble." It restores the weak and run-down man or woman to sound health.

"Some time has elapsed since I have written you in regard to the treatment I have been taking under your instructions," says Mr. E. F. Cignars, of Minneapolis, Minn. "When first I commenced taking your remedies I was under treatment of a well-known specialist in this city (and had been for four months), for catarrh, and especially stomach trouble, and I was rapidly getting worse. Got so bad that I could not eat anything that did not distress me by itself, and I was obliged to quit taking the doctor's treatment entirely. I was greatly reduced in flesh. As a last resort I wrote to you and stated my case, and after receiving your instructions regarding hygienic treatment, I followed them closely. After taking five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I commenced to improve and decided to continue the medicine and observe your instructions regarding hygienic treatment. It is now nearly six months since I commenced your treatment and I can say that I am well and never feel better in my life. Am very grateful to you for what your medicine has done for me."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

PROTECTING VICE IN HAWAII.

Attorney General Knox has laid before the President certain facts concerning a state of affairs in Hawaii that may require a thorough investigation of the territorial government. It will be recalled that Judge Humphreys, of the Territorial Circuit Court at Honolulu, was recently brought before the attorney general on charges preferred by the Hawaiian Bar Association. The particulars of the complaint against his administration of his office need not be recited, since he has been exonerated on every point of the indictment. Briefly stated, the accusations were that while occupying a place on the bench he continued to control the editorial policy of a newspaper hostile to the government, and owned by him before his appointment; that he had packed a grand jury with opponents to Governor Dole; that he had exercised political influence in procuring legislation, and that he had been harsh and unfair in his treatment of members of the bar. Suffice it to say that the evidence offered in support of the charges was most flimsy, and brought down upon the complaining sharp rebuke from Attorney General Knox.

In his reply to the complaint of the Hawaiian Bar Association, however, Judge Humphreys included as exhibits two charges delivered to the grand jury of his district by himself; a charge to the Federal grand jury of the Territory by United States Judge Estee, and an official report to the Commissioner of Labor indicating the notorious existence at Honolulu (under the protection of the Government) of a most revolting form of vice. The statements contained in these exhibits are of a character that makes them unfit for publication in their entirety in a family newspaper. They point out that within a mile from the centre of the Hawaiian capital an institution is maintained, "with the full knowledge and consent of the Territorial authorities," which is inhabited by slaves under a control "more absolute and despotic than that to which African bondmen were ever subjected in the United States" (the quotations are from the official documents). The slaves confined in this moral pest house are women and young girls, a few of them French and the remainder Japanese. They are taken thither by procurers employed by the company which owns the inclosure and buildings (and which, by the way, is incorporated under the laws of Hawaii), and are sold at prices ranging from $100 upward, according to their age and attractiveness.

The masters pay an annual license fee of $50 for each of their chattels; and "if by reason of decaying physical charms one is unable to meet with her owner's requirements she is sold to some Mongolian who desires a personal servant or attendant." Failure on the part of an inmate to earn a certain amount of money per diem is followed by the infliction of brutal physical punishment, "occasionally reaching such lengths of cruelty as to call for expostulation by the policemen detailed to prevent the inmates and visitors from indulging in disorderly conduct." Rules and regulations for the conduct of the horrid trade piled at this institution have been made by the local police, and are posted at the entrance to the stockade surrounding the inclosure. The health officers exact a fee of $250 for each inmate, and issue a certificate of health to the dwellers in the sink of iniquity, and the grand jury preceding the one alleged to have been "packed" by Judge Humphreys reported "the condition of the premises and the general management, which is conducted under the supervision of the police department and of the board of health," to be "as satisfactory as could be expected." The average age of the poor creatures is fifteen years, and there are several under twelve.

"It is heartrending to walk through the streets of this infernal inclosure," says Special Investigator O'Connell in his report to the commissioner of labor; and one can well believe him. The hellish traffic in human bodies and souls is in direct violation of Hawaiian law, yet it is guarded and supervised by the health and police officials; and by their condonation of the offense against public decency every one of the territorial officials has made himself a participant in the crime. Judge Humphreys would have been derelict in his duty if he had failed to denounce the den of iniquity to the grand jury—a proceeding which evoked the wrath of the time-serving of the Hawaiian Bar Association. The worst feature of the case is that the slave pen of Iliaili is regarded as one of the unique attractions of Honolulu. It is visited by all elements of society; strangers and tourists are taken there by respectable residents, and gaze with morbid interest on the brazen display of enslaved victims. The polluting influence of the institution, therefore, is not confined to Hawaii and the Hawaiians, but is spread, through the increasing number of American visitors to the territory, to all parts of our country. What is the vicious example of expiring Mormonism or of the institutions of domestic slavery in the Bulu archipelago by comparison with the nameless crime of Iliaili? That anywhere under the jurisdiction of the United and under the protection of our flag there should exist a form of human bondage so intolerable and degrading almost passes belief. This foul disgrace should be erased if the territorial government of Hawaii should have to be wiped out with it.—[Philadelphia Record.]

It Happened in a Drug Store.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. E. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In a course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I considered that a very good recommendation for the remedy. The remedy owes its great popularity and extensive sale in a large measure to the personal recommendations of people who have been cured by its use. It is for sale by Richard Gibson.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will cure a Cough or Cold at once. Cougher (croup), Whooping Cough and Hoarse Cough without fail. Best for Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Grippe, Pneumonia, Consumption and Lung Affections. Gives quick, sure relief. Price 25¢ Sold by Richard Gibson and all druggists.

"I had long suffered from indigestion," writes G. A. Led with City, Mo. "Like others I tried many preparations but never found anything that did me good until I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. One bottle cured me. A friend who had suffered similarly put on the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. He is gaining fast and will soon be at work. Before he used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure indigestion had made him a total wreck. For sale by E. S. Leadbeater & Sons.
